Leifer: The Golden Age Of American Football

Synopsis

No pain, no gain: The most memorable moments since the birth of pro football in America – if you are a sports fan, you have to be a Neil Leifer admirer, for you have been seeing his pictures and they’ve been shaping your impressions and memories for five decades. – Bob Costas
In 1958, journalist Neil Leifer took the picture that remains one of his most famous to this day. The day he got the shot – Alan Ameche’s game-winning – sudden death – touchdown – was Leifer’s 16th birthday. This game, called the greatest ever played, – signaled football’s emergence as America’s new national pastime; formerly half-empty stadiums welcomed sold-out crowds seemingly overnight, while football surpassed baseball in national television ratings. Starting then, on any given Sunday Leifer was most likely shooting a football game somewhere in America... While best known for his iconic photograph of Muhammad Ali towering over a fallen Sonny Liston, it is his football pictures Leifer considers his best. This collection represents the best of his best, culled from over 10,000 rolls of film on the sport. With an introduction assembled from the best football columns of the era by famed sports columnist Jim Murray, and incisive captions detailing the legendary players, coaches, and games, this volume carries the guts and glory of the game into the end zone.

Customer Reviews

Great to relive the gritty days of the NFL through these remarkable photos. Seeing Jimmy Brown break through the line of scrimmage made me think of what it would have been like to try to tackle him--no thanks!!! And the Jim Murray columns are a perfect backdrop. Quite a stroll down memory lane.

Very nice service and book
